Many asset owners, including pension funds and insurance companies, index providers, rating agencies and asset managers, are starting to take into greater account the integration of environmental, social and governance issues (ESG) by which companies' sustainability can be assessed. A specific focus is aimed at organizations whose management involves a positive impact on climate change that is currently under way, and which adopts divestment strategies on fossil fuels, paying attention to the risks and opportunities involved in the transition to a low-carbon economy in order not to generate high greenhouse gas emissions.
